September

VROOM! The big yellow buses rolled to school in September, carrying the largest population ever to Tigard High.

Greeting the returning students were several new changes which had taken place over the summer. Most noticeable upon arrival was the building "facelift" — the application of a multi-color design on the building front, supergraphic hall designs, and paneling throughout the building halls, giving a constant motif to the interior.

Twenty-two new faces on the faculty also greeted the incoming students, and the (CE)2 program moved its headquarters to the THS building. Pete Lorain also began his association with Tigard High as administrative vice-principal. And, as a result of a combined Student-Faculty Curriculum Committee effort, students were given a choice of classes on a pass/no pass basis for the first time.

One controversy also surfaced the first month of school. It centered around a new attendance policy which created a specific number of allowable absences (10) during a semester. Violators were subject to loss of credit in classes where excessive absences occurred. The new policy, though not popular with students, did seem to have some effect on the district's fight to combat growing absenteeism through skipping.

Summer ended with a suddenness that left few prepared for the start of school, even though athletic teams began practicing in August. In the heat wave, the "Star Wars" craze and the new beat of discomania, the month of September marked restlessness as students attempted to return to school life.

October

It took awhile for the wheels of the new school year to start turning but two of the year's most exciting events occurred in October — Homecoming and the fall drama, "Junie Moon."

Homecoming Week (celebrated Oct. 17-21) sported most of its usual activities but enjoyed a new twist on Friday night with the 8-7 Tigard victory over Clackamas in the football game, the Tigers' first Homecoming victory in 15 years.

Junior Lori Eggert was chosen queen and presided over the week's activities. The senior and sophomore/junior Powderpuff teams played to a 6-6 tie, the bonfire was a blazing success and floats and decorated autos adorned the car rally and halftime entertainment.

The drama department performed the difficult play, "Tell Me That You Love Me Junie Moon." Sue Riverman, Todd Hermanson and Steve Graham won lead roles in the production.

The Guardian Angels made their debut, supporting a football player throughout the season. A group idea conceived by Pep Club, each angel added spirit by contributing locker posters, cookies and surprises to the team while remaining anonymous. Team members found out who their angel was during the sports banquet at the conclusion of the season and the end of a busy month.

November

November was one of the transition months in 1977-78. The first quarter ended in mid-month and after finishing last-minute projects, students relaxed during the first few days of the new grading period and the four-day Thanksgiving vacation, which was extended an extra day because of an early snowfall.

Bells — school bells — were on everyone's mind. Due to a malfunction in the automatic bell system and the subsequent difficulty in ringing them manually, THS went silent for several weeks as repairs were made. But many people grew so accustomed to the new, more casual approach of starting and dismissing classes that when it came time to activate the system, there was dissention. But to most students' dismay, faculty members, citing confusion and the lack of clock synchronization ultimately voted to "bring back the bells."

Sports were on people's minds, too. The football team just missed a playoff berth after recording their best season in years while the water polo team and boys soccer team each qualified for post-season play. The soccer men, in their first season as a sanctioned sport, surprised nearly everyone by earning a trip to Civic Stadium to meet Lincoln, and though the Tigers acquitted themselves well, they were eventually overwhelmed by the more experienced Cardinals. Meanwhile, the water polo squad had their sights set on dethroning perennial champ David Douglas, but they too met disappointment after an outstanding regular season, finishing third in the tournament.

Other events of note included a disco dance which featured the sounds of Discomania and a visit to THS by professional actress Millie Perkins, of "Diary of Anne Frank" fame, to spend a day with Thespians helping with acting techniques.

December

The month of December was brightened by Christmas Week and the subsequent 11-day vacation. The canned food drive was a surprise as student efforts were rewarded when Tigard won the contest against Lake Oswego, Lake-ridge and West Linn by collecting three times as much food. At THS, the junior class won the class competition.

The week's activities continued with the student-faculty one-act plays, a charity toy drive conducted by Welcome Committee and the many class competitions (showcase decoration, tree decoration, hall decoration and the unsuccessful inside-out day where only foreign exchange student Daniel Atterbom followed the design of the contest and came to school with his clothes inside-out). Santa showed up at the assembly to introduce the Christmas court consisting of Judy Dingman, Christy Lang, Connie Kling, Kay Kramer (named Queen), Teri Edwards and Vicki Martin.

The Christmas dance on Saturday night provided music by the band "Sparrow." At the break, Steve Holley crowned Queen Kay.

Swing Choir went on their annual singing engagements, performing at King City, the Aero Club and Meridian Park Hospital.

The weather was in the news once again as wide-range flooding of the area around THS and Tualatin was caused by six inches of rain, nearly stranding people at school during one afternoon.

January

The post-Christmas "blahs" began to hit a lot of students, especially seniors, a number of whom graduated at semester's end in late January. Though there was no ceremony, those who chose early graduation were through with school, some working, some starting college a half-year early. Most returned to graduate officially with classmates in June.

January noted two losses in leadership — one at the student level and one at the administrative level. Pat Quinn was disqualified from office and Kirk Johnson took over, with Dick Brummett named new vice-president replacing Johnson. Vice-principal Jim Ylvisaker left his curriculum post at THS to accept a job with Multnomah County IED, leaving a gap in the administration that was covered by two or three administrators until the post was filled.

Vandalism closed the THS student store, the "Tiger's Lair," during January. Vandals broke into the school and the store, pouring ink over counters and textbooks and dumping candy all over the floor. The student lounge was also in trouble at this time due to student abuse during the regular school day. After threats and increased patrols, as well as a noticeable improvement in student attitude, the lounge was reopened.

Poor crowds at sports events frustrated athletes and coaches as winter sports struggled to duplicate the strong fall showing. Though girls basketball showed flashes and two wrestlers qualified for state, it was left for the swimmers to splash to the best record.

February

The shortest month of the year was somewhat short on action, too. Several students petitioned Tri-Met for a bus shelter in front of school. Led by Marc Miller they managed to achieve their goal by summer vacation.

Drama students departed from the usual pattern of a spring musical and scheduled it during February this year. The choice, "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum," was a musical comedy that provided audiences with a change-of-pace production.

The Computer Club sponsored a dance with the help of their computer — couples were to be matched up much in the manner of the computer dating services that were popular several years ago. Response, unfortunately, was less than overwhelming.

In national happenings, John Travolta and "Saturday Night Fever" continued to influence behavior and THS students pushed for more disco-type dances and visited Earthquake Ethel's on Saturday afternoons to enter contests and meet new friends. The Sex Pistols and punk rock had not found their way into the hearts of most THS students, but nationwide, the punk movement was growing more popular in reaction to the disco craze.

March

GRRR! The month of March did indeed come in like a lion. Early in the month, the Sadie Hawkins dance was a roaring success with its own "Cow-Pie Court," consisting of Todd Hermanson, Matt Maleta, Steve Graham, Bruce Hedgepeth, Tad Taylor and Jon Girod. Hermanson was awarded the honorary title of "Cow-Pie King." A Marryin' Sam (Nick Fleming) and a dance contest sponsored by KGW Radio were other activities which made the dance a success. Dozens of bales of hay brought in from students' farms plus wagons and other decorations added to the hillbilly atmosphere.

During the middle of the month, the music department was busy with rehearsals for both band and choral concerts and athletic teams were involved in preseason practices for spring sports, and the most important week of all, the five-day Spring Vacation, turned out to be a testimony to the drawing power of the sun as students returned from the holiday bronzed and healthy following trips to the beach, California, Hawaii and various ski resorts.

The month was ended on a high note with the State Drama Conference where Tigard Thespians were honored to present a full-length production. A selected group of THS Thespians were also chosen to present their scene from the musical hit "Annie" in front of the entire conference audience.

So the month that came in like a lion went out like a lamb, waiting to be drenched by April showers.

April

Two major events marked April happenings — student body elections and the Prom as students voted for new leaders, and rented tuxedos and limosines to enjoy the return to dressing up.

In a close contest, Clay Dennis was chosen as 1978-79 student body president. Others winning positions on the executive board were George Heizenreter, vice-president; Sue Hatanaka, secretary; Debbie Alford, envoy; Michelle Robinson, treasurer; Steve Holley, activities manager; Donna Lundquist, assistant activities manager; and Lisa Schwartzkoph, athletic manager.

The theme "Pieces of April" characterized the 1978 Prom. Following a trend that began last year, the Prom was self-supporting. Student attendance was good as growing numbers showed interest in the annual event which had been greeted with great disinterest for several years in the early '70's. More than 100 couples gathered in the Portland State University Ballroom and danced to the music of "Vegas." Val Wilken was crowned queen with senior princesses Marie Wilson, Debbie Nelson and Kate O'Halloran, and junior princesses Carrie Papp and Sue Hatanaka adding elegance to the court.

Other April events included the annual variety show, with both daytime and evening performances this year; the drama department production of Story Theatre, a collection of fables from Aesop and Grimm; and a second-place band title at the Wilco League Band Contest for Dick Powell's musicians.

May

As the year drew to a close, May Week and senior activities highlighted the last full month of school. May Week included Uniform Day, Hat Day, Hush Day and a Don Eaton assembly. The week was brought to a conclusion with the annual May Dance at which Bernie Schockelt was crowned "Mr. Irresistible" for having collected the most hush buttons.

The Home Ec department sponsored the fashion show where students modeled clothes they made in Home Ec sewing classes. Senior Skip Day and the Senior Sleep-out both occurred in May. Though the events lacked administration approval, seniors didn't seem to notice the absence of official sanction — both events had high percentages of participation.

The month concluded with the last dance of the year — the Inaugural Ball. New student body officers were sworn in at a special ceremony during the dance as 1977-78 officers were ushered out with appreciation.

June

As seniors faced the last three days of an era together, the baseball team provided nearly a perfect ending to the year. Winning the Wilco League championship and advancing through the State playoffs, they found themselves the center of attention the evening before graduation ceremonies — they were playing for the State title at Civic Stadium. A huge Tigard contingent showed up and offered support but mistakes and bad luck haunted the Tigers and West Linn won the championship, the Tigers third loss of the season against 29 wins.

Despite the disappointment, spirits were high the following day at Civic Auditorium for commencement exercises. The work and the waiting finally ended on the afternoon of June 4 as seniors strode across the stage in front of family and friends to receive the symbol of achievement after twelve years — a diploma.

GRIDDERS BOUNCE BACK

The resurgence of Tiger football was a welcome fall phenomenon following years of being the Wilco League doormat. Coach Deno Edwards' charges built on a solid base from the preceding year and came away with a 7-2 record in '77. Two tough losses eliminated the Tigers from the play-offs but along the road, THS won its first Homecoming game in 15 years, a close 8-7 triumph over Clackamas.

TEAMS MAKE PLAYOFFS

One of the big surprises of the fall sports season was the soccer team dominance of the Wilco League in only their second year of existence and their first as a full-fledged sport. Reasons for the top-notch showing included Cleve Nyberg (checking a Lincoln opponent during the playoffs at Civic Stadium, right); Ron Lambert (below left) named one of the Oregon Journal's Prep Athletes of the Week in October; Pat Glenn (below right), a wing who was one of the League's top scorers; and Greg Myers (bottom), another wing, who along with foreign exchange student Vico Anez at midfield, gave the Tigers an awesome offense. The defense, anchored by Mark Gibson, Gene Rivas, Tim Scott and goalie Dave Phipps, also played good soccer, enabling coach Dave Andress' troops to surprise the traditional league powers Lakeridge, Clackamas and Centennial.

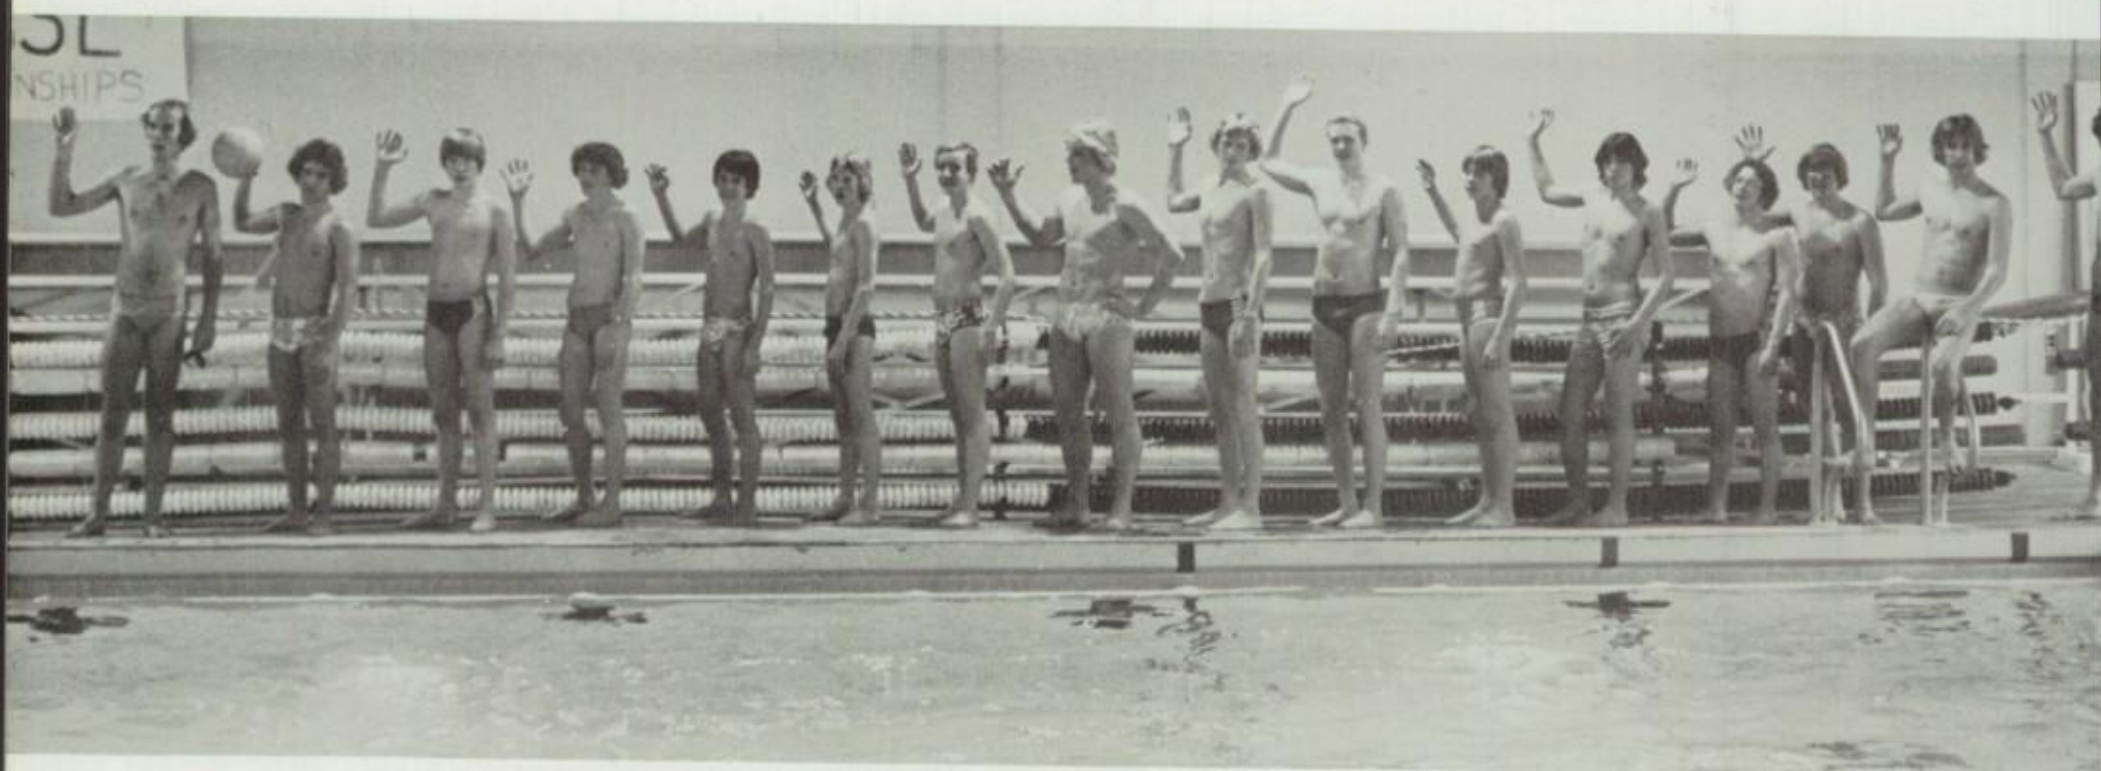

Eight returning lettermen, an enthusiastic coach and a lot of team pride and unity were among the factors that led the water polo team to a 3rd-place finish in the state tourney. Though the goal of dethroning perennial champ David Douglas eluded them, the poloists blitzed the opposition all year long in league matches. Charlie Singleton (left) and Doug Sommers (bottom left) guided the offense, while Bernie Schockelt (middle left) anchored the defense. Steve Hedgepeth (below, 33) and Tom Volpe (below, 23) were also vital to the Tiger defense. Coach John DeRoest (bottom right) kept the spirit up as the team talks over strategy in the huddle.

LOSSES HAMPER SQUADS

Uncertainty followed the cross country teams after the appointment of a new coach, Evan Jaqua, to replace longtime coach Norm Oyer. One veteran did not turn out which hampered the squad, but they worked hard toward salvaging the season. Mike Miller was the number-two man and had a strong year. Number-one runner Warren Golden (opposite page, top left running down a Lake Oswego opponent) was the only Tiger to place in District. Junior varsity runners Mark Baker and John Gibbons (opposite page, top right) were the heart of the JV team, while Donna Levien (opposite page, bottom left) was vital to the success of the girls team.

The coattails of the boys' success were not quite long enough for the girls to ride on, as the girls soccer team picked up only one win all year long. Despite the efforts of senior MVP Peggy Tydeman, the experience of coach Paul Sherman's Tigers was evident. Junior Susan Lewis' (top left) performance gave promise to next year, as did the scoring of Sally Forsterer (above passing to Tami Wimber). Both Wimber and Dawn Roberts (left) will return for the Tigers next year.

GYMNASTS WIN WILCO

Both ends of the spectrum marked the seasons of the THS gymnastics teams. While the boys suffered from lack of experience, were coached by three different people during the course of the year and failed to win a dual match, the girls team, under coach Linda Sheron was undefeated in league matches and took the district championship.

Phil Martin (lower left) was the most inspirational for the boys while Cindy Light (lower right) qualified for State for the girls. Sophomore Cyndi Ross (right) and freshman Theresa Scott (below left) gave the Tigers a strong young pair of all-around contenders. Scott Wenlund (below right) excelled in the strength events, here pictured on the still rings.

HOOPERS FALL SHORT OF GOAL

Attrition took its toll on both the boys and girls basketball teams before the season ever started. First-year coach Tom Phipp's boys were hit hardest as only two players from last year's varsity and three from JV returned on this year's team. The girls lost Jeannette Cameron to Hillsboro High and Coach Wayne Petersen's squad missed her height and rebounding all season. Randy Worsech (opposite page, top left) was the Tigers' leading scorer, Most Improved (along with junior Chris Brands), and 2nd team All-Wilco. Captain Jimmy Grove (opposite page, top right) acted as the teams' floorleader, while Curtis Grund (opposite page, lower left) was named Most Inspirational. Joe West was named Most Valuable for the Tigers. Sophomore Sue Gieszler (left) proved a surprise in helping to fill Cameron's shoes and Lori Loughney (behind Gieszler) was part of the Tigers one-two scoring punch along with Mary Manley (below right). Peggy Tydeman (below middle left) and Connie Kling (below, diving for ball) shared duties at point guard for the Tigers. Kling was the Most Inspirational Tiger.

TANKERS WIN BIG

"It's the water . . ." screamed the headline in the Hi-Spots. Though it may not have been a totally accurate explanation of the success of the Tigard swim teams, the phrase was at least partially true. The success of teams from the Swim Center over the past few years has been phenomenal. Support such as shown by coach Bill Dendurent (opposite page, upper left) and team members themselves (left) was vitally important to success. Andrea Burgess (opposite page, middle) and Charlie Singleton (opposite page, lower left) were two of the Tigers most successful swimmers. Lillian Smith (opposite page, lower right) found a quiet place to prepare for a race, while Jim Hanson (lower left) was anything but quiet as he cheered his relay teammates on.

Peering through goggles while doing the backstroke, Terry Light (lower right) was another swimmer who had a successful season. Veteran coach Dendurent and second-year coach John DeRoest (below) were the minds behind the "Big Green," while athletes like Tom Volpe (left) comprised the heart of Tigard swimming. With winning records and several competitors qualifying for the State Meet, THS kept things cooking in the pool.

A PIN TO WIN; 2 MAKE STATE

Survival is often the goal of some wrestlers competing in the tough Wilco League but the Tigers got much more than that from the 1978 matmen. Two THS grapplers had near-perfect seasons — Rich Smith and Gai Babin both wrestled well enough to make the State Tournament where Smith took fifth place in his weight class. Jim Cutz (top right) was also one of the top wrestlers all year until injuries hampered him at District while Jerry Aasen (opposite page, top) also was a strong competitor. The Tigers were led by the coaching combination of Don Hedgepeth (opposite page, lower left) and Bill Patterson (opposite page, middle right). Numerous injuries toward the end of the season contributed to several disappointments for individuals at Sub-District and District but even these could not take away the success wrestlers like Scott Wenlund (right) and Gene Rivas (opposite page, lower right) had for the Tigers during a surprising year.

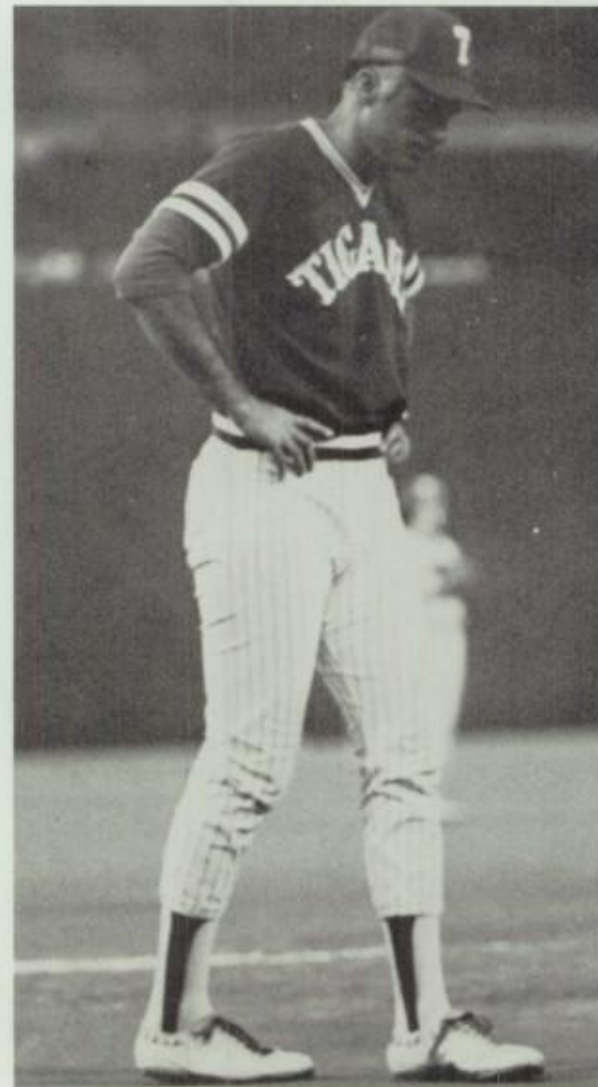

The state's best season record and a second-place finish in the state playoffs brought pride and a renewed interest in baseball to THS in the spring. The Tigers mowed down all opposition with the exception of West Linn (twice) and Lake-ridge on their way to a 29-3 finish overall. Heavy hitting and tough pitching highlighted the year and the frustrating loss at Civic Stadium in the State finals was the only real blemish to a nearly perfect season with uncharacteristic miscues being the key to the 5-4 loss.

THS '9' 2ND IN STATE

Four Tigers received All State notoriety: pitcher Mike Clark (top left) who was 23-3 in two years; 1st baseman Joe West (bottom left) Tigard's leading home run hitter; Jim Grove (above middle) a .375 hitter and centerfielder-pitcher; and Jerry Sproul (above), a .430 hitting third baseman. Greg Myers (opposite page, top left) and Gary Duffy received All-Wilco 2nd team or honorable mention placement.

TRACK MAKES COMEBACK

NEW SPORTS IMPROVE

Three spring sports, two of which were fairly new to THS, had good seasons following the pattern of a strong spring. Boy Boys golf fared slightly better than expected, especially in the light of three veterans who did not turn out. Ron McQueen placed the team (opposite page, lower left) with good putting and was MVP. Dave Clawson (opposite page, top right) finished out a three-year career by being named Most Inspirational. Other members of the 13-7 overall squad were Dan Duvall, Ken Christopherson, Mark Tedder and Allan Sacker.

The girls team in their second year recorded a new low season average and a new low for a THS team at District. Led by Sue Gieszler (opposite page, bottom right), the girls posted a 5-6 won-loss mark. Other team members included Karin Duvall, Shelly Simerson, Ellen Glassmeyer, Linda Keith, Joan Bodyfelt and Debbie Uphoff.

In their first year, the girls softball team boasted a 14-4 record, second best in the Wilco League. Led by a bevy of heavy hitters, the girls scored lopsided victories on several occasions while playing sound defense. Outfielder Michele Robinson (top left) was one of the best hitters against fast pitching. Pitcher Wendy Mathews, an All-League Honorable Mention, rounds third while Debbie Anderson rounds second during a slugfest against Lakeridge (lower left). Head coach Dan Roisom gave lots of pep talks between innings (top right). Charlie Lawton and third baseman Cindy Hansen, also an Honorable Mention, rest on bases during change of pitchers in the midst of 10-0 pasting of Lakeridge (above middle). Connie Kling (above) was THS' leading hitter and All-League 1st Team at shortstop, getting more votes than any other player. Other stars included Mary Manley, 1st Team All-League catcher, Kara Vredenburg, 1st Team All-League outfielder, and Susan Lewis, second leading THS hitter and Honorable Mention at second base.

GIRLS, BOYS UNDEFEATED

NETTERS TAKE WILCO

Undefeated seasons by a boys team and a girls team in the same sport — a first for THS and a rare accomplishment in high school athletics — was the story in Tigard tennis. The boys, led by singles players Steve Anast (opposite page, top) and Dave Thomas (opposite page, lower left) breezed through 19 opponents without a loss, recording 14 shutouts in the process. Anast and Thomas were both undefeated as were the first doubles team of Jeff Boles (opposite page, lower middle) and Dave Thompson (opposite page, lower right) and second doubles players Robert Odell and Dave Roberts. Roberts (opposite page, top right), shown with senior Tom Cox warming up at District, did not lose a league doubles match in three years of high school competition. Boles and Thompson were District doubles champs; Roberts and Odell were second; Anast was second and Thomas third in District. Thomas then won the consolation singles title at the state tournament while the above-mentioned qualifiers also performed well. Other varsity players included Wade Peterson, singles, and Cox and John Stroeve, doubles.

Coached by Bob Skrondal, the boys ran their record to 33 straight Wilco League victories and 47-3 overall during the past three years as they picked up their third straight Wilco trophy.

MUD RUN MEANS 'FUN'

'Twas a bleak day; the rain had been coming down in torrents for three days. The squall whipped about tearing at our flesh. Yea, though the weather was horrid, team spirit was at a seasonal peak, for that day was a day that had been looked forward to with the utmost anticipation. On that day was held the ultimate event of the 1977 cross-country season, the Mud Run.

Forward we thrust into the elements, beginning our final trek as a team. Emotion was running high; the mud-men splashed through the first puddles. The rousing chant of the mud grew out of the depths of the true runner spirit in each of us. Animal and others started the fun by diving headlong into the chewed-up turf of the soccer field, but some of us, being connoisseurs of the finer muck in life, waited until we reached the pool at the corner of Seventy-fourth and Durham Road, where could be found some of the finest silt in the state. Hacking our way through the putrid stench erupted by the Durham Sewage Treatment Plant, we gained the pond. I wish I could have seen the look in the lady's face in the yellow Datsun as I mashed two handfuls of the delicious gobble-digoop into my face, followed by the look of anger at the realization that gravel had polluted what was a utopian substance.

"MUD!" came the cry triumphantly from an embankment to the west. Shouts of "mud" and "go for the gusto" rebounded off every tree, as each man stomped in, smeared, and threw about the mounds of coarse-grained, fair-quality, well-soaked soil. I moved laterally along the bank, looking for something more satisfying.

There, on the terrace, was a puddle filled with the most effluent ooze I had ever seen. I picked up a handful and squished it through my fingers. This mush was nearly perfect. I wiped it on my arm; it was wonderful. I sat and rolled about squealing in ecstasy, not about to share my find of that spectacular erubescant ooze, for the moment. But being a member of the team, I could not let everyone run off and miss that paradise. I called to them, but they had already proceeded down the hill. While racing down a shoosh, to catch up to the pacing mudmen, I discovered another pond of super muck and called the team's attention to it.

Animal jogged over and began to wallow in the luxurious gunk, moaning in blissful rapture, until our competent captain pointed out that this magnificent matter was not mud at all. It was standard sewer sludge, the finest textured but the lowest form of mud known to man. Needless to say, we quickly removed our bodies from the viscum and carved a clear course to the creek. Everyone found out what fabulous fun fording the foul Fanno can be. Forward we plunged, one by one, waist deep into the cold, clammy current to cross and then slipping and sliding while climbing out of the canyon on the other side. Moving toward the train tracks through the ashen quagmire of the Sewage Treatment Plant refuse, almost losing shoes and Smith. Now in the final leg of our journey, we picked up the pace.

I can not put into words the extreme physical and mental anguish felt by each and every mudman, as we charged the hill as a team for the final time.

LORI REIGNS AT THS HOME- COMING

Friday, October 21, dawned bright and beautiful, a perfect day for Tigard High to celebrate Homecoming.

Hours before the game students were decorating their cars with green and white streamers and signs declaring "Tigard is number 1!!!" Still others were at school decorating the cafeteria in preparation for the dance. An hour before the game Tigard fans were already lined up at the gates. When the gates opened the fans flooded the stands, banners and posters went up and confetti filled the air.

With the appearance of the team the stands exploded with cheers and Tigard High was on its way to an 8-7 Homecoming win over Clackamas. The fans were ecstatic with the satisfaction of their first Homecoming victory in 15 years, an excitement shared by Queen Lori Eggert and princesses Theresa Graham, Suzy Slemons, Judy Whitmore, Lisa Fiorante and Marci Meyers.

Vegas, the featured band, played softly as Queen Lori and princesses reigned over the evening's festivities. The couples danced from 8:00 to 11:30 p.m. in the cafeteria which was decorated under the theme of "We Believe."

Other activities during the week included the traditional Powderpuff football game. The class of '78 attempted to make it three straight wins as they had been victorious as sophomores and juniors, but the underclass team met the challenge, playing to a 6-6 tie. Captains for the seniors were Melissa Ferry, Kate O'Halloran, Julie Sargent and Laura Burgess. Underclass captains were Charlie Lawton, Christy Lang, Amy Wise, and Laura Allen. Teachers Tom Accettura, Len Misso, Bob Skrondal and Alex Hoffert coached the teams. Maria Havery made the only touchdown for the sophomore/junior squad and Julie Sargent made the only touchdown for the seniors.

*Hello my friend there
Will you come stay with me?
I've got a lot to share
No matter what you may see
I've got a friend here
And she does live with me
And what love I have to share
I don't think that it can be*

*I've got a feeling deep down inside
The kind of a feeling
That is so hard to hide
Tell me that you love me, Junie Moon
I'd only have to hear it once
Tell me that you love me, Junie Moon*

*Seeing you stand there
You seem so far away
With us together
This house could become a home
If we were lovers
As if it would ever be
I'd leave all my pains behind
And only have time for thee*

*I wish I were someone
To come and sweep you away
And make all of your dreams come true
If only just for a day
Tell me that you love me, Junie Moon
I'd only have to hear it once
Even if it's late*

Sydney (Robert Bade), as the nosy neighbor, snoops (opposite page, top left) and Arthur (Steve Graham) confesses his love to Junie (opposite page, bottom). Warren tries to walk at the insistence of society snob Val Wilken (left); Junie looks at her scarred face in a mirror (bottom left); and Steve Gillespie and Misse Rylander portray memory characters of Warren's past (below).

CAST PERFORMS 'JUNIE MOON'

Senior Sue Riverman headed the cast of the fall drama production, "Tell Me That You Love Me Junie Moon." The story of three handicapped people who decide to live together, "Junie Moon" deals with the physical as well as the emotional restraints of the three. Junie is deeply scarred by acid, Arthur has a progressive neurological disease, and Warren is a paraplegic.

Throughout their struggles they come in contact with a variety of characters. Gregory torments Warren until he feels forced to try to walk; Sydney, the pesty neighbor, spreads rumors about the three around town; and Mario becomes one of the few friends of the three and a comforting aid after Arthur's death.

Each production is a test of creativity and special effects to make it a unique show. Director Larry Daw added six memory characters to the cast to help tell the past lives of Junie, Arthur and Warren; Darcy Jenkins wrote original music and lyrics to the title song; and professional actress Millie Perkins attended a rehearsal and worked with the cast.

'FORUM': WINTER MUSICAL

"A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" was the earthy winter musical performed during February. Combining talents of actors from the drama department, the play also had dancing and comedy to offer appreciative audiences.

Taking place in early Roman days, "Forum" had classical characters winding their way through a somewhat confusing but amusing story line.

Psuedolus (Todd Hermanson) is a servant of Senex (Don Walden) and Domina (Darcy Jenkins). Psuedolus involves his high-strung co-worker Hysterium (Robert Bade) in his mischievous capers to get Philia (Terri Haas), a virgin from a house of courtesans (see captions), owned by Marcus Lycus (Bryce Shroeder) for Hero (Chris Cornilles).

Pseudolus finds out Philia has been sold to the victorious Milus Georiosus (Eric Shannon) who in turn finds out from his long-lost father Eronious (Thom Huntley) that Philia is his sister as the complications continue.

Throughout the play, Proteans (Steve Graham, Mike Felker and George Heizenreter) play an array of characters to smooth the production out. The February date marks a change in THS musical tradition, the annual event usually taking place in the spring. While spring was still favored by many people, the winter show date proved to have fewer conflicts than the traditional, though hectic, end-of-the-school-year date.

DRAMA SHINES IN '78

An overwhelming success was shared among THS Thespians at the 1978 State Drama Conference as: "Annie," a musical theatre entry, placed for a showcase performance; senior Denise Hullet was invited to give a workshop on publicity; Regional Director and drama director here at THS — Larry Daw gave a workshop on Thespians and served as the International representative; Tigard Thespian Troupe 2833 was named one of three honor troupes in the state, an award which they have received for the past five years; sophomore Melissa Webb was elected state treasurer; and "Story Theatre" was performed as one of three mainstage plays.

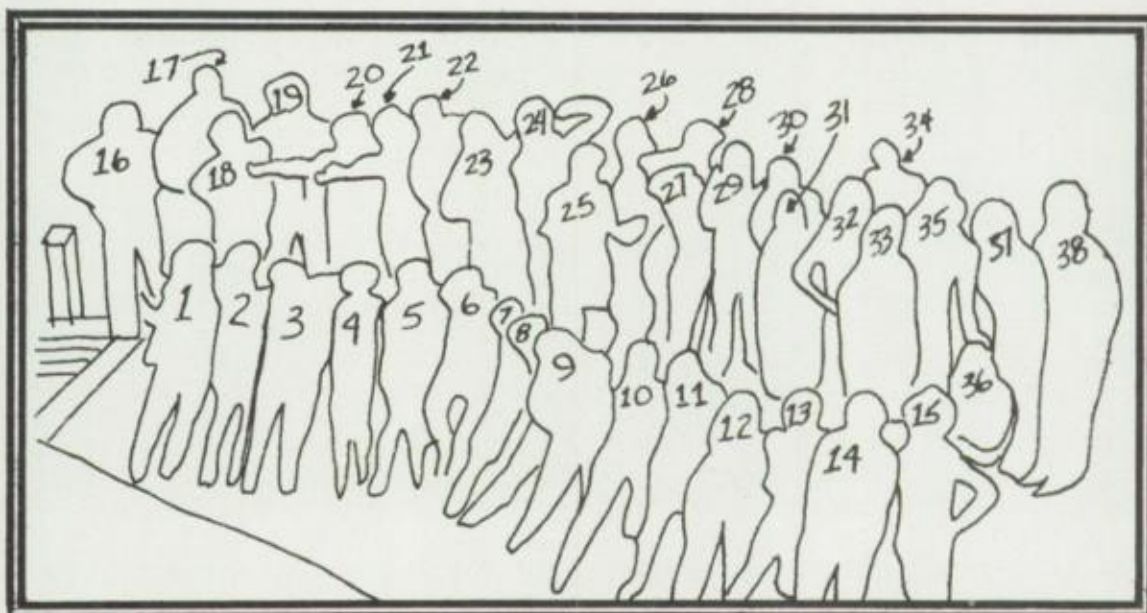

"Story Theatre," a collection of children's fairy tales, turned out to be the highlight of the conference as director Larry Daw commented, "It was gratifying to see the performers come together and give a performance that made the entire troupe proud to be a part of Tigard Thespians whether they participated in it or not."

Tigard Thespians have been active throughout the year with special projects to raise money for the International Dramatic Arts Conference during the summer. Recycling, working on a Rose Parade float, a run-a-thon, and various shows were just part of their many activities. Thespians were also named the most active club at THS.

When the sun comes out, so do the skateboarders. Jumping pyramids of people, benches and making 360 degree turns is a typical scene during lunch. Skateboarding has become a popular sport at THS, and sophomore Tim Ness, with wrench in hand, is determined to make his skateboard run at its best.

The sophomore stage band played and encouraged the teams at games, whether football or basketball. They also played for pep assemblies. Mark Baker doesn't necessarily express the mood of the entire band, but it wasn't always fun.

When the military recruits hit THS with information on the armed forces, a great interest was taken. Although eighteen is the required age to enlist, Craig Harvey and Gerry Vogt examine literature during a special "Military Information Day," held during the spring in the cafeteria.

While sophomore Andy Hanson points to a bumper sticker that says, "I want your body," he also wants a pencil that is somewhere in the bottom of his locker. Gym bags, loose papers, scribbled Pee-Chees, radios and posters made up the typical students locker decor, and it isn't unusual to find most of it on the floor.

ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE

Sponsoring fewer activities than usual during 1977-78, the Activities Committee, under the direction of Steve Holley (Act. Manager) and Jan Roberts (Asst. Act. Manager) concentrated instead on improving the quality of important annual events such as Homecoming and Christmas Week.

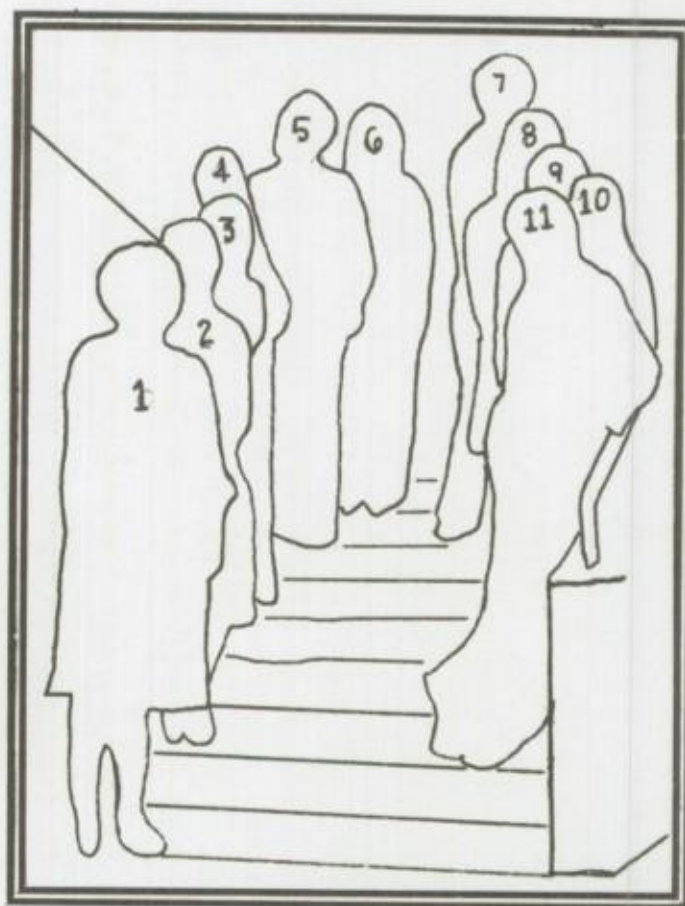

Coordinating several groups in their efforts for Homecoming, most committee members were pleased with the large turnout at the week's traditional events, such as the bonfire, Powderpuff game, picnic, and dance, where the new coronation costume was used.

Christmas Week was filled with spirit as the various class competitions got underway (showcases, halls, color day). The committee earned over $350 on the Christmas Dance. Among other things, the money was used as a donation to begin a fund for a new PA system in the main gym.

Assemblies were also on the list of priorities. Among the most popular of the reduced assembly schedule was Free-wheelin', a rock band which performed during a morning assembly and returned for a special concert during the evening. Over $700 was earned from this project alone.

Sadie Hawkins and May Week were two other special projects undertaken by the committee with the help of various clubs throughout the school. The Sadie Hawkins dance was an especially popular one, earning nearly $400 for Hi-Spots.

The committee ended their quite successful year with the major awards assembly where teachers and students were given awards in commendation of outstanding service to the activities program. Also, a special award that is to become an annual event was presented to Thespians for being the most active club in school.

EXEC COUNCIL

Efforts to abolish school apathy occupied the time of the Executive Council during 1977-1978, a year when a lackadaisical attitude characterized the student body. Some of their projects included the installation of a Tri-Met Bus shelter in front of the school, the Inaugural Ball to swear in the new student body officers, and a sponsorship of the Jog-o-thon which helped many clubs to earn money. These activities had a disappointment when the landscaping of the courtyard, which was where the money was directed, did not materialize.

The continuity of several projects was also hindered when President Pat Quinn was forced to forfeit his office due to poor grades. Vice-president Kirk Johnson worked to improve the attitude of the student body. LisAnne Sax, envoy, and Dick Brummett, newly elected vice-president, also accomplished much during the second semester.

SKI CLUB

In its first year with real club status, the THS Ski Club took six Saturday trips to Mt. Hood Meadows.

In addition to the six regular trips the club also made one before-season trip and a post-season swing-shift trip to Timberline.

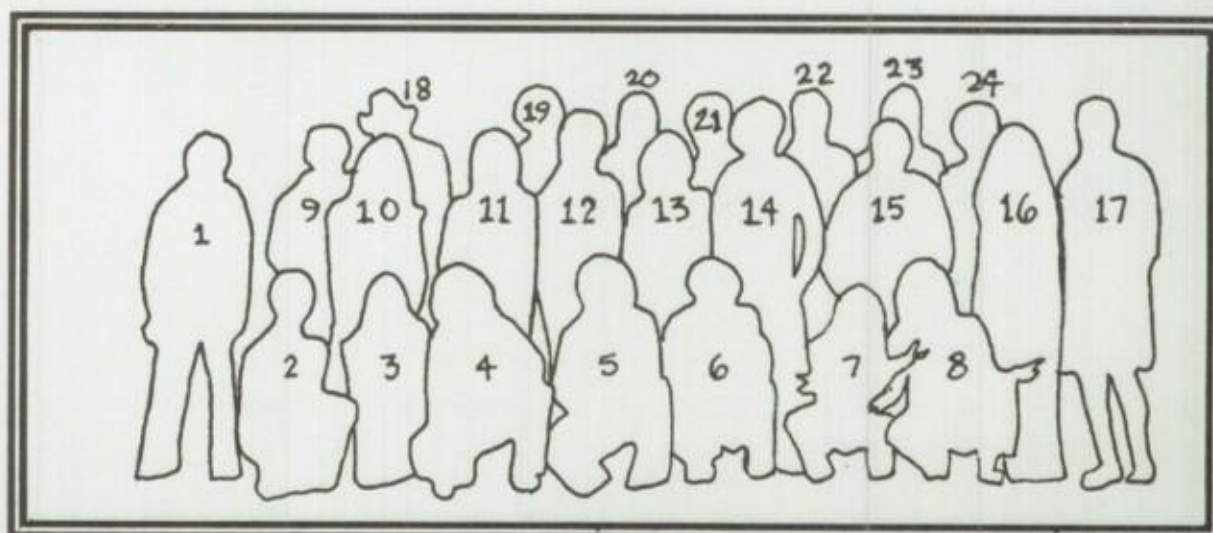

"After last season's severe lack of snow, this year's powder seemed wonderful," commented advisor Marty Herr.

The club's officers were Scott Brannon, president; Brad Hulquist, vice-president; and Dawn Otterson, secretary-treasurer.

KEY CLUB

The Northwest Key Club convention, held April 14-16, was the highlight of the Tigard's chapter year. With THS being one of the host clubs and senior Jim Hanson a co-chairman of the event, the local chapter was heavily involved in planning and coordinating the success of the annual affair.

Additional activities members enjoyed included snowmobiling at advisor Bill Dendurent's Mt. Hood cabin and water-skiing behind his boat on warm spring and summer days. The club earned money by selling pronto pups for the Kiwanis Club and by working in the THS concession stand at athletic events.

Key Club (which stands for Kiwanis Encouraging Youths) had 18 active members including Hanson as president and Brad Hathaway as vice-president. Dendurent also served as Kiwanis Club president as well as THS advisor.

WELCOME COMMITTEE

Under the leadership of student body Envoy LisAnne Saxe, Welcome Committee attempted to deal with the plight of students new to Tigard High. Committee members tried to help familiarize mid-year transfers with the school by escorting them to classes, introducing them to fellow students and helping them find rooms and lockers.

At Christmas, they sent the new students Christmas cards. On Parent Day, the committee welcomed the parents with carnations and helped them find the classes on their son's or daughter's schedule.

DECA

Sue Eggers' first place in the job interview category at the state meet in Eugene started off the year for the new Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) Club at THS on a positive note.

With the main goal of reviving their chapter, the club was required to get signatures, pay their dues, write a constitution, and submit the package for approval.

Advisor Sue Treviso expressed satisfaction with the first year of DECA at THS and plans to keep building the scope of the club with a strong core of members.

SPEECH

Forensics Squad, led by Cagney Davis and Ray Browne, finished a successful year after competing in 14 tournaments.

Some of the many victories were a first in impromptu and second in persuasive speaking won by Davis, and a third in serious interpretation by Thom Huntley at the St. Mary of the Valley tournament.

In the OSU Tournament, Tigard as a group took third in Sweepstakes. District provided Browne with a first in after dinner speaking and Davis two firsts — one in impromptu and one in Lincoln-Douglas debate.

Browne made semi-finals in humorous, and Davis finals in girls extemporaneous in the NFL District Tournament.

At the state tournament, Davis once again proved her expertise in speaking, winning the state championship in Lincoln-Douglas Debate and taking second in impromptu.

Advisor was Nancy Lewis and Davis was club president.

COMPUTER CLUB

With a goal of buying more parts for their microprocessor, the Computer Club co-sponsored the Computer Dance, a dance in which they matched couples with the help of a computer. At Christmas, members used the microprocessor and TV terminal to wish THS students a "Merry Christmas."

The club also entered the PET computer in the art show during the spring. The members wanted to show the "art" of programming but some students didn't understand. After seeing the pattern displayed by one program, an unimpressed student remarked, "That's lazy man's art."

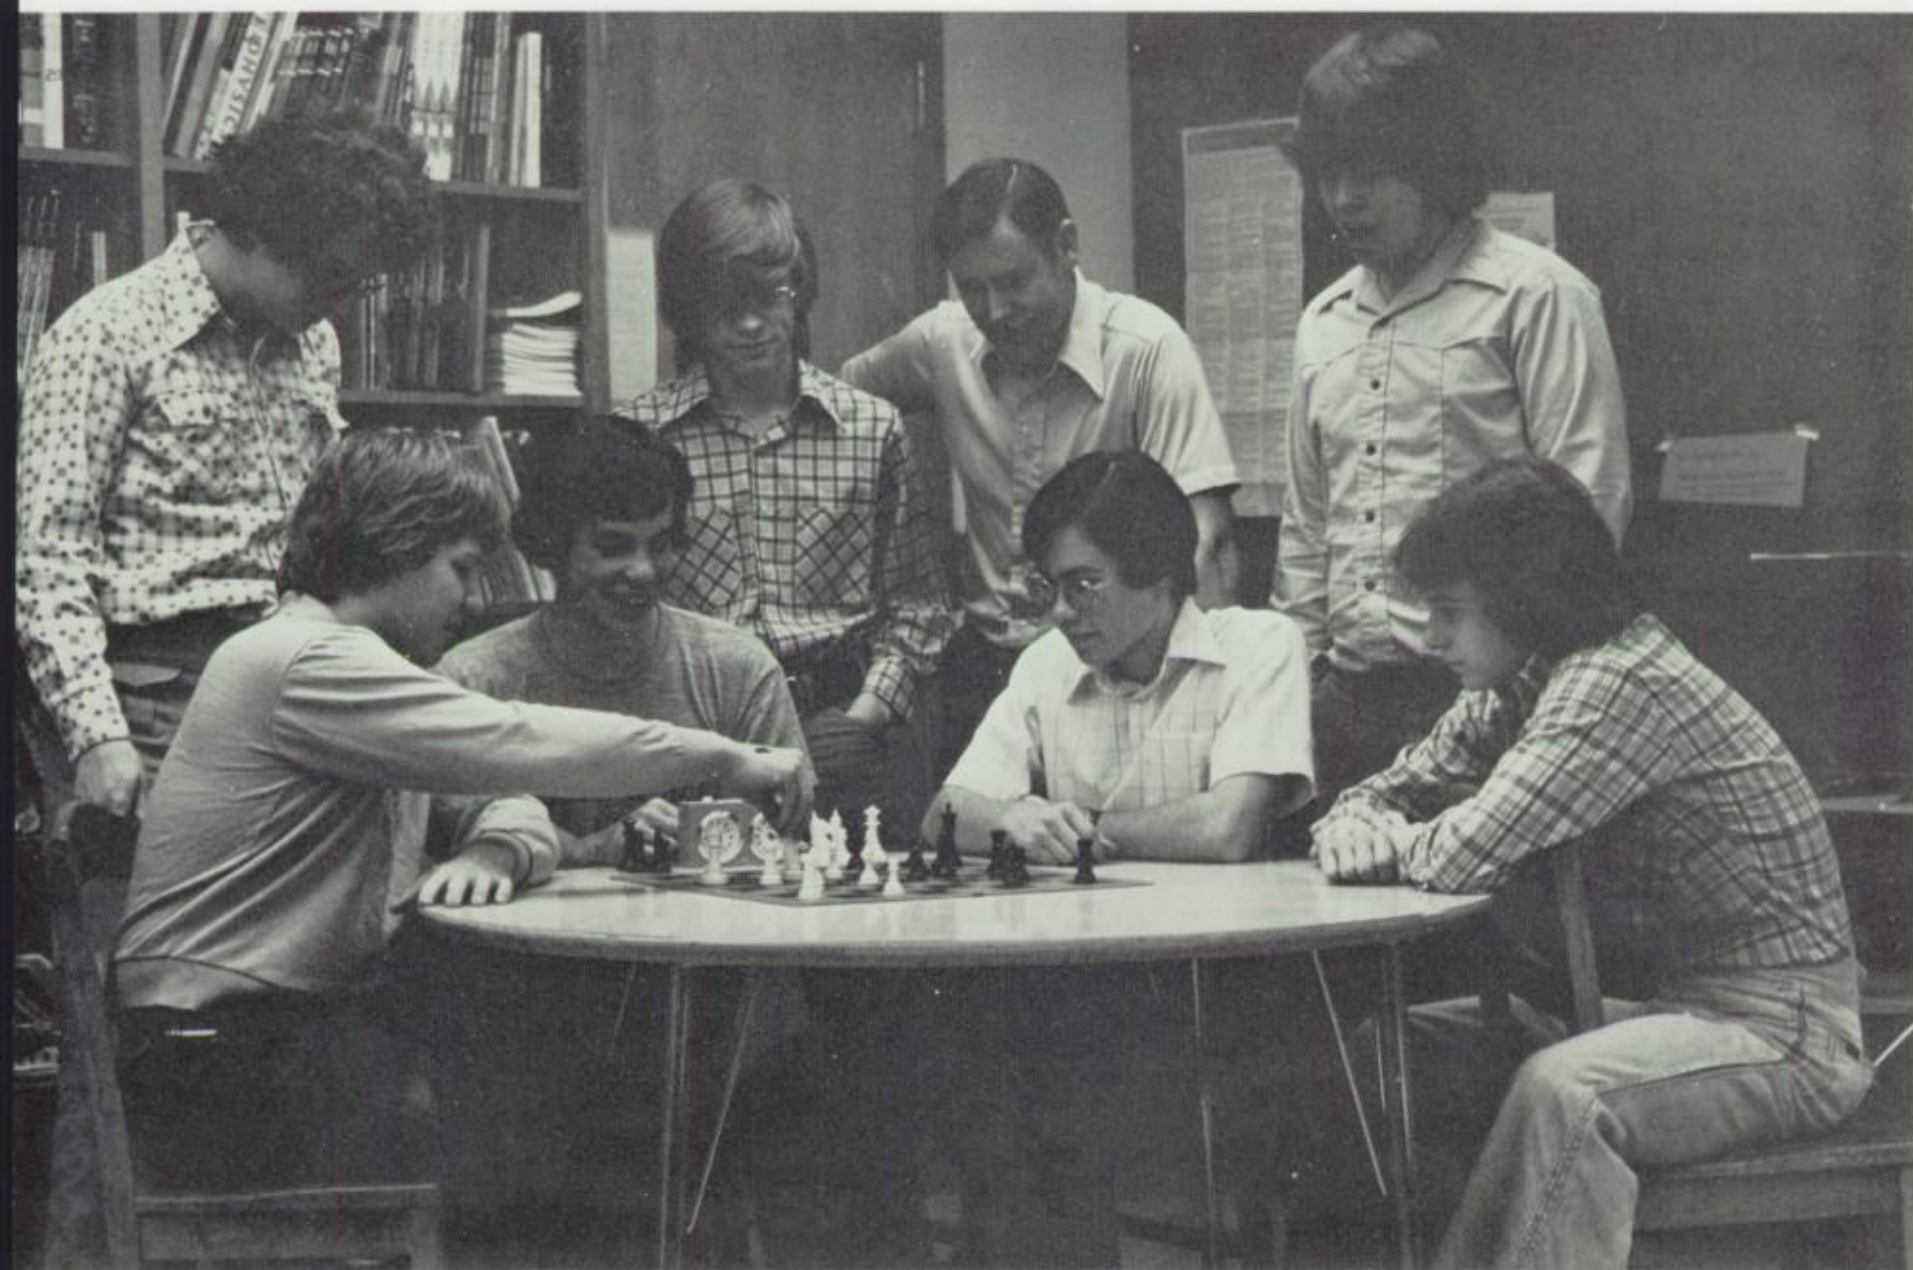

Under the leadership of president Ken Shriver, the Computer Club also regulated the rules of using the computer in the library. During the summer the club hopes to complete the assembly of a new computer for next year.

Other officers were Glenn Grant, vice-president; and Brian Hawes, secretary-treasurer.

CHESS CLUB

Though not sanctioned as a sport, Chess Club competed with other schools in the Wilco League, compiling a 4-6 record and finishing sixth in the district tournament.

The five-member team met at the science resource center and various member's houses after school to work on strategies. According to advisor Alan Rolfe, "Looking at our great play during the second half of the year, our good showing at the tourney, and the fact that all our players are returning next year, we should have an outstanding 1978 season."

HONOR SOCIETY

The induction of new members was only one of the many activities Honor Society was involved in this year. The induction for seniors took place in the fall while new juniors and sophomores were admitted in the spring.

Other activities included the selling of sno-cones during the summer at the Tigar Town and Country Days picnic. Honor Society also sold tickets at all home football games. Decorating of president Curtis Grund's car resulted in a third place win for the club in the car rally. During Christmas Week, members went caroling with ICC.

Advisors were Gary Gentemann and Chuck Heil. Officers were Curtis Grund, president; Rachel Goodwin, vice-president; Alison Gilham, treasurer; Sue Ohanesian, secretary; and Debbie Nelson, historian.

TI-ALPHA-BETA

Under the leadership of advisor Bev Silva, and president Tracy Guyer, Ti-Alpha-Beta sponsored the sale of mums at Homecoming and candy canes at Christmas. The sales made a substantial amount of money for the club and therefore they could afford to buy corsages and candy for the faculty at Christmas.

During the spring, they sponsored Hush Day and the Mr. Irresistible Contest. Their senior members, including vice-president Kathy Ashenfelther, celebrated the end of the year with an outing to the coast.

PEP CLUB

Pep Club cheered on the football and basketball teams with the organization of the Guardian Angels.

Each one of the club's members had a player who they encouraged during the season by giving them gifts and support.

Other activities included serving at the sports banquets, and participating in the Homecoming Float Competition. They also sold hats and scarves with Tiger emblems to promote school spirit and raise money.

The officers for the year were Melissa Ferry, president; Lori Brawand, vice-president; and Donamae Gradwohl, secretary-treasurer. Advisor was Sarah Fisher.

YEARBOOK

The yearbook staff began the year as an enthusiastic group, wanting to produce the best and thickest Tigard High annual ever. Unfortunately, through a series of unexpected events, illnesses, lost negatives, missed deadlines and low advertising sales, the goal was reduced to "finishing the book." Despite our personal disappointments and setbacks, we have still tried to provide you with a yearbook which covers the events of the past school year. Hopefully, it will bring back memories which will long be cherished. We did the best job we could considering our situation and we're proud of the results. We hope you are too.

HI-SPOTS

An experienced, talented staff worked hard to produce the 1977-78 Hi-Spots. With the goal of winning the Pacemaker Award, high school journalism's mark of the number one newspaper in America, the staff opted for a monthly, progressive newsmagazine format, with graphics highlighting imaginative layouts featuring in-depth articles on school and community.

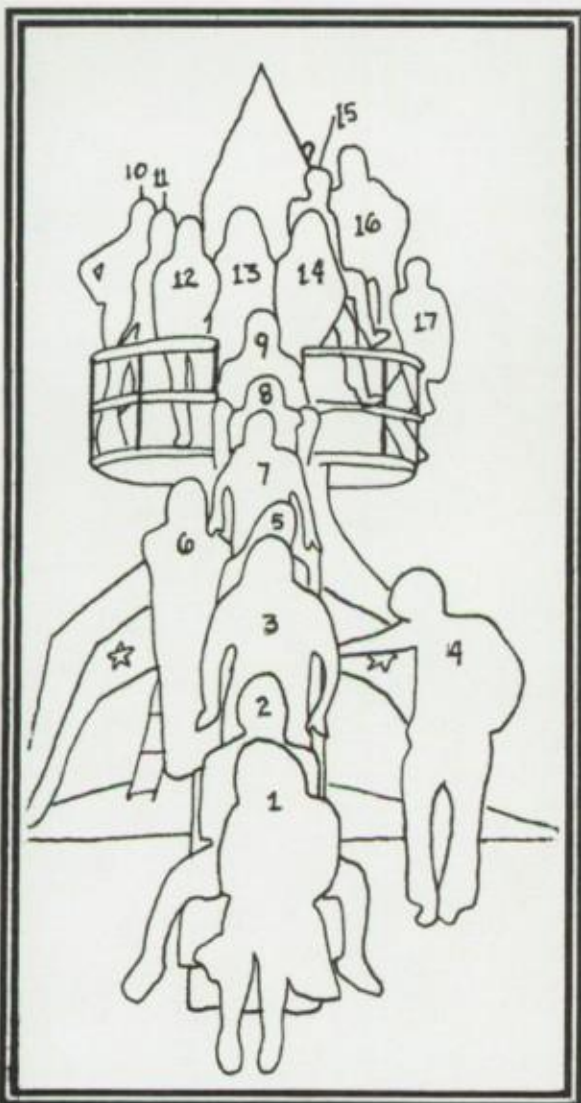

An All American for nearly a decade, Hi-Spots was co-edited by Matt Meyer and Tania Dmytryshyn. Tania won a writing contest at the annual Oregon Scholastic Press Conference at the University of Oregon in October and won a scholarship from U of O's School of Journalism, one of three awarded in the state this year. Matt won five writing awards during the summer workshop at U of O and was runner-up in OSP writing contest. Together, they formed a strong team for writing, designing and leading the staff.

Other editorial board members included Nathan Lawrence, Managing Editor, who also worked for the Lake Oswego Review; Lori Johnson, Fine Arts Editor; Nick Fleming, Photo Editor; Alison Gilham, Business Manager; and Tom Senior and Curtis Grund, Sports Editors. Grund was Editor-In-Chief during 1976-77, the first junior to hold that position, and was named alternate for the U of O School of Journalism scholarship. Foreign exchange student from Sweden Daniel Atterbom also wrote for the paper, adding an international flavor to the publication.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Instrumental musical groups divided their time between classroom, practice sessions, football field, gymnasium and various other places during the year as they provided music for concerts, dances, halftime entertainment, football and basketball games as well as contests and personal professional groups.

Symphonic band worked hard all year and the efforts paid off in the spring at the Wilco League Band Festival where the group took second, pleasing directors Dick Powell and Dan Strauss. The only disappointment was the new rule that gave trophies only to the first-place band — The THS group certainly earned a piece of hardware.

The sophomores comprised the Pep Band and Marching Band groups, playing at athletic events and providing a Homecoming presentation that drew acclaim.

Stage Band's year had its ups and downs but the group progressed with some excellent performances before the THS student body and at evening concerts which were attended by the public. They also played several engagements outside the school including a memorable performance at the Thunderbird in Portland.

Six THS instrumentalists were chosen to play in the 225-member Music in May Band, the annual honorary festival held at Pacific University in Forest Grove. Selected were Tim Haag, alto sax; Brian Hawes, bass clarinet; Jeff Lehman, tenor sax; Tim Oest, Tuba; Tim Mosier, baritone; and Betsy Rawls, flute. Orchestra members from THS were Darla Dickson, clarinet; and Alison Gilham, flute. The Music in May Band director was Robert Vagner, from the University of Oregon, and the orchestra director was Carmen Dragon, conductor of the Glendale (Calif.) Symphony and father of the Captain of Captain and Tennille. The festival concluded a good spring and a good year for the instrumental music department.

VOCAL MUSIC

Tigard High's vocal music department had a big year with several musical groups comprising the performing ensembles. Early in the school year, the Swing Choir was chosen by KYTE radio station as the official KYTE Choir. Although a couple of performances took place, an expected tour to Seattle never materialized.

Swing Choir and Concert Choir also appeared at several Christmas season performances. One of these was at the Washington Park Zoo. The concert was attended mainly by members of the press and received coverage in the Oregonian and on television.

Swing Choir also signed up to do a pre-game entertainment for a Portland Timbers soccer game and the Rose Festival Junior Court selection ceremony at Grant High School. In late May, Swing Choir took third place in their division at Mt. Hood Community College out of 108 choirs.

Concert Choir performed at functions that were more suited to a formalized atmosphere and had two of their members, Jaelynn Jackson and Linda Hammond, chosen for the prestigious Music in May Festival at Pacific University.

We opened Scott's Mountainsports with the philosophy that it takes more than a lot of equipment and some posters on the wall to be a great ski shop.

It takes people who know skiing, both downhill and cross-country. What we like to call technicians of the sport. People that can help you as an individual at whatever your level and answer questions without trying to impress you.

With many runs and even spills behind us, we understand skiing and we're here to share that understanding with you.

So, stop by and talk to us. Because next to skiing, talking about it is what we like to do best.

Doug
 I'm glad to see you survived this class. Between you and the morons consuming those it was almost impossible.
 Thank you for sticking up for me when those morons were bothering me. I hope your summer is an exciting one (but not too exciting!) Hope to meet you in the future
 Love & Luck

Patricia
 I hope you are happy. I really must have seen your concerts. But they were awful!
 I must make it
 Doug.

Doug
 Thank you for your fine effort this year.
 Your attitude and projects pleased me. too for the thank you dinner we will get to go hunting
 Fine may be together

Doug.
 at I didn't see you

Doug
 At last I don't have to listen to your favorite song
 "Big John". I still think you should have played Lawrence Welk. see to some day.

Doug,
 You a weird guy. I don't know what I'm going to do know that I don't have anyone to tease. Sorry but I'm not going to cheat on my husband (who will eventually become my real husband!!)
 Good luck in the rest of your life.

Doug.
 Hey like this year has been so great. I'm glad we were friends in the three years. I'm glad we got together in class. Wish you the best of luck in the future. Your friend
